

SURREY UNIVERSITY - VETERINARY SCHOOL (GUILDFORD - UK)

The new three buildings on the university's Guildford campus will allow teaching of veterinary medicine. The new academic building will provide world-class teaching and research laboratories, lecture theatres, and flexible break out spaces organised around a common shared atrium. Sustainability features will include naturally ventilated office and teaching spaces, and an atrium roof shaped to guide rising air into the plant room for heat extraction

700 m<sup>2</sup> atrium

Architect: Devereux Architects – London
Main Contractor : BAM construction
Ongoing studies – Construction in 2014

